Pacific Liner Malolo, on Trial Run. Is Struck Off New York.

MANY CRAFT ON WAY TO SCENE OF CRASH

Heads of Cramps, Builders, and Matson Line Are on the Helpless Steamer.

New York, May 25 .- In a dense fog Atlantic coast for several days, the new and fastest commercial craft ever built in the United States, 24 hours out on her trial cruise, was in collision at 4:50 o'clock this afternoon 15 miles southwest of Nantucket lightship with the Norwegian freighter Jacob Christensen sccording to a wireless report received by agents of the Matson line tonight.

The wireless message, signed by William D. Roth, president of the Matson Navigation Co., who was on board, said that the new 22,000-ton ocean liner, which is destined for the Pacific, was so badly damaged that she was unable to proceed to port under her own power and was awaiting a tow by one of the several ships which were feeling their way through the dense fog

Details Not Obtained.

Details of the accident were not contained in Mr. Roth's message. Malolo was rammed amidships and has 4 feet of water in her fireroom which rendered useless the power unit of the giant liner. Other from the distressed ship stated that the freighter's fore peak had been caved in and flooded. From these two facts local marine men deduced that the Jacob Christensen had struck the liner head on. No casualties occurred in the collision, Mr. Roth's message said. Washington, the heart-city of his own folk, the District Commissioners informed the intrepid aviator in a cablegram, wants him for a while at least to pay him something of the honor it feels is his due.

That the reception is to be the Nation's formal acknowledgement of her son's extraordinary feat was made clear by the fact that President Coolidge was informed of the action of the commissioners and approved of their purpose to invite Capt. Lindbergh here.

Details of the reception have not been worked out. More than that, it is not entirely certain that there will be a reception, the entire affair apparently hanging on the desires of the aviator. Washington wants Lindbergh here. The commissioners want to do him honor. Officialdom is anxious that Parls, the capital of a foreign nation, shall not ital of a foreign nation, shall not do the Capital of Lindbergh's own Nation in paying the modestly lovable American ambassador extraordinary

All Depends on Flier.

But there was considerable dublous-ess about the matter. The nation-old ness about the matter. The nation-old prerogative of Americans to do what they will, the nation-old disregard of pomp and power, acted to place a question mark behind the whole affair. Washington wants the tall, blond youth to come here to be honored, not in a spirit of competition with other cities, but because it feels the Capital of Lindbergh's own country can not do him less honor than has been accorded by the capitals of other nations.

Coolidge May Be Absent.

Plans for the celebration of Lind Plans for the celebration of Lindbergh's return necessarily are indefinite. No one here desires to interfere with the glorious reception he is receiving in Europe, for every cheer given the air mail pilot in Europe finds a proud echo here and elsewhere through the nation. Washington has approached the task of welcoming him back with something of the attitude of his mother: "Charles can make his own decision; it is his party and he is doing well at it; there shall be no effort to bask in reflected glory."

Fog and Danger of Forced Landing in River Held Big Obstacles.

LINDBERGH'S PREVIOUS ESCAPE SHOWS PERIL

Location of a landing field for air mail planes in Anacostia Park would be objectionable because of the proximity of water, officials of the Postoffice Department, in discussing a possible landing field for the air line to be established through Washington this summer, declared yesterday.

The new line is to be from New York to Atlanta, and Washington has been designated a port. The proximity of water to a landing field is not objectionable for the purposes of the army, it was declared. However, for air mail fiying it is said to present real objections.

flying it is said to present real objections.

Because any landing field established in Anacostia Park would necessarily be in the vicinity of Anacostia river, officials of the Postoffice Department believe that the park should be eliminated from consideration as a possible site for a permanent landing field for air mail planes.

The same objection applies to Hoover field, across the Potomac, which was used last summer by the planes of the Philadelphia Rapid Transit Co. That field also is too close to the water to be desirable as a permanent landing place for air mail planes, it is said.

One of the first objectionable features of a permanent field near water is fog, officials declared.

Fog Real Hindrance.

Fog Real Hindrance.

Fog. though less often a hindrance to flying, is a real hindrance to landing, it is said, and on land bordering on water, fog is heavier and occurs more frequently than on land some distance removed.

more frequently than on land some distance removed.

Yet fog would not be so much a matter to worry about if air mail flying had any choice of hours. This is the real trouble, it is said. Air mail flying is at all hours, and very often starting and landing is in morning and evening, concurrent with the hours of fog.

But, specifically, the schedule of the air mail line calls for stops in Washington in the night, southbound, and in the wee hours of morning, northbound. And at night fog is worse than at any time for starting and landing. It was pointed out that strong light in fog becomes a hindrance to vision, and the strong flood lights thrown over a landing field before an airplane lands reflected with proportionate power against the hilliums of town matters.

anding field before an airplane lands reflected with proportionate power against the billions of fog particles would be more blinding than night. The trouble in such a case is that the pilot never knows how far he is from ground, it is said.

Officials pointed to an adventure of Lindberg a few months ago. Arriving at Chicago with air mail, he found that a fog had so enveloped the city that he could not distinguish the field in the mass of diffused light over the city. He circled around over the city for an hour, then running short of fuel, turned west to try to find a landing. About 30 miles from Chicago, however, the last drop of gasoline was consumed, and he was compelled to jump, 5,000 feet in air. He could hear the plane circling around him as he dropped toward ground. However, the plane landed 2 miles from where he did.

The proximity of water is also dangerous for starting and landing, it is said. In either case, should a plane can make his own decision; it is his party and he is doing well at it; there shall be no effort to bask in reflected glory."

Whether President Coolidge will head the official welcome will depend on the time Lindbergh returns. The President plans to go on his vacation soon and unless the aviator returns within the next fortnight it is probable the Chief Executive will be gone from the city. There is to be an official welcoming committee appointed by the Commissioners as soon as an answer to their invitation is received by the Commissioners but announcement will be withheld pending receipt of Capt. Lindbergh's reply.

A great scene of confusion followed the crash. A crowd of more than $,000 persons were in the park in honor of "Landis Day," many of them women. The following statement was made by Commissioner Landis: "Virtually out of its path aithough just a few fet away and a witness of the terrific destruction that endangered the lives and limbs of hundreds, I passed the severest storm in my experience this afternoon in the Portsmouth (Virginia League) Baseball Park.

"Why, little more than a pleasant breeze on a warm day swept the portion of the stand in which I was scated. Then great dust clouds swept across the field, obscuring most of the view. But I have often seen these dust storms in ball parks, and I thought little of it for a moment. But behind later, a swirling, rushing, tearing black wind, sweeping a great gap through the center field from and hylid these wind, sweeping a great gap through the center field fence and hurled itself with irresistible force against the grand stand's right wing. The front slope was swept inward, and the rear portion was lifted high and swept into the distant field.

Many Pinned Beneath Roof.

"For a minute there was the rending of timbers and other portions of the superstructure were swept away. Many were pinned under that portion of the roof that was crushed in. Naturally, great confusion followed and there were cries of terror to be followed by the frantic efforts of bail players and uninjured spectators in rescuing the injured. Such was the rapid motion picture of the actual catastrophe.

"I am grateful that it was no worse, for had it struck that section of the stand in which I was seated, packed with men, women and children, hundreds would have perished. The conduct of those in my section of the stand was admirable. They stood their ground, under the advice of the cool headed, were orderly when the necessity for rescue work was disclosed, resolutely gave their best."

Refuse to Leave by Train.

A railroad was commandeered by nn M. Parker, flood relief dictators remove 5,000 persons from Iberville ish, south at Pointe Coupee, but by, too, refused to leave.

Fall of Level Is Slow. Virtually the whole of the Tensas Basin, including thirteen parishes, remained under water as the shifting inland sea rolled southward. A slow fall had started, but recent heavy rains have retarded it. At Jonesville, in the have retarded it. At Jonesville, in the center of the basin, the gauge stood at 63.3 feet, a fall of only 1.1 feet since May 16, in spite of the fact that more than 1,000,000 acres of land in the Atchafalaya Basin have been submerged since that time by the water drained through the break at Bayou de Glaises, 170 miles northwest of New Orleans.

The move toward the Gulf of Mexico carried flood waters into Iberia sh, bordering Grand Lake, the nat-outlet of the Atchafalaya River to the gulf. The spread westward was moving more slowly as the flow through the Melville crevasse diminished in volume after the McCrea crevasse on the east bank of the same rived above the east bank of the same rived above Melville.

While the waters were draining from the Tensas into the Atchafalaya Basin a gradual fall was being recorded in the Yazoo delta, and it was announced that the first train to be operated, into Greenville, Miss., since the flood would arrive there June 8. The date of resumption of service between Vicksburg and Rolling Fork still was indefinite, since water remained almost 2 feet over the tracks in many places. Of 458 miles of tracks on the Greenville division of the Yazoo and Mississippi Valley Railroad, 138 miles remained under water.

Red Cross Memphis Base Is Abandoned

With approximately 339,000 refugees now under its care, the American Red Cross yesterday removed its Mississippi flood relief headquarters from Memphis to New Orleans, according to advices from Henry M. Baker, director of relief, to national headquarters here resterday.

A break in the levee on the east side of the river would mean approximately 50,000 more refugees, James L. Fleser, vice chairman, telegraphed Chairman John Barton Payne. A population of 75,000 would be affected should there be a break in Louisians, he said, expressing the hope that the McCrea break would be the last. Since the flood has assumed the proportions of a major disaster, the Red Cross has cared for a total of at least 514,474 persons, not including the refugees now evacuating Southern Louisians.

Cleveland, Ohio, May 25 (By A.).—George Schmidt, 60, a voluntary prisoner at Warrensville work-house, near here, said today that he would reject a legacy of $30,000 be-cause it would force him to leave his happy home at the workhouse.

they, too, refused to leave.

Mr. Parker was informed that 125 persons in the vicinity of the McCrea break were preparing to live on the levees. The majority of them were children, the report said, and the food supply averaged less than three days for each family.

Hundreds, however, continued to move from the threatened Evangeline country and the refugee camp at Lafayste became congested. Plans for transferring 6,000 of the victims to Crowley were abandoned, because of difficulty in arranging transportation. More than 17,000 persons already were at Lafayette and 1,235 were to be brought there from Carencro, where they were being housed in homes, barns, public buildings and elsewhere.

"That Mme. Meurthe, prompted by her instincts of generous philanthropy, should have thought to honor me with a gift of 150,000 francs has touched meyond expression. I believe, however, that I should be less worthy of this gift if I did not feel that the welcome which the French have accorded me was a sufficient reward for my flight. ### Naming Baby After Lindbergh Ends Row

Charleston, W. Va., May 25 (By A. P.).
When Capt. Charles A. Lindbergh conquered the Atlantic he furnished a solution for a three-months' family difference over choice of a name for a Huntington boy. A letter received to day from Robert E. Jones, admitted that a name for his 3-months-old son should have been chosen long ago, but added "no name seemed good enough."

Names selected by the mother did not suit the rest of the family. The father's choice did not please the mother. "We just could not agree," said the letter, "until Sunday, when we received the news of the aviator flying from America to Paris. It struck me that there was a name good enough from America to Paris. It struck me that there was a name good enough for anybody and I said "We will name him Charles Lindbergh Jones," and right away the thing was settled."

Lindberghs' Life Story

Below appears the first of a series of ix articles telling the life story of apt. Charles A. Lindbergh. The next rticle will be printed tomorrow. "Well, here we are!" Lindbergh Tells Editor First Words on Landing

It was just like "Lucky Slim" Lindbergh to say that as he brought his staunch plane Spirit of St. Louis to a standstill on the flare-lighted field of Le Bourget after his world-capturing flight from New York.

That homely sentence and his naive statement to Ambassader Herrick that as he didn't know anybody in Paris he had brought along some letters of introduction, are utterly characteristic of this unaffected American youth. He is as simple as a pipestem—and almost as slender—and yet he has been a picturesque figure during most of his 25 years.

slender—and yet he has been a picturesque figure during most of his 25 years.

There can be little quubt that the inner simplicity of Charile Lindbergh shining through to his outward bearing has caught the imagination of the French and the rest of the world only in a little less degree than his superbaccomplishment. Nor can it be gain-said that he has been much-less at his ease with the clamor of Paris ringingin his ears than when he was compelled to spring from a plane whose engine had stailed at 13,000 feet and trust himself to a parachute. And what he felt when President Doumergue of France kissed him on both cheeks with the presentation of the Cross of the Legion of Honor can only be imagined.

Record Was Localized.

Record Was Localized.

Until a few days ago "Lucky Silm" was comparatively obscure. To be sure he had done a great deal of flying, made quite a record for himself, but it was a localized record, chronicled officially in Army and Air Mail archives and in the memory of his friend. But only a few people knew him. He was a good pilot, he was a fine fellow, but modest to the point of ruddy embassassment over anything that thrust him into the foreground. That's what his friends and acquaintances thought of him, and "Silm" was quite willing to let it go at that. at that.

But with his coming all eyes were But with his coming all eyes were turned upon him, because he had made, in the flight from San Diego to St. Louis, the longest hop ever achieved by a single pilot in this country. And, furthermore, he had come in a "blind" plane, one which did not permit the pilot a vision ahead save through a periscope. There had never before been a "blind" plane, and the other aviators at the field, including Commander Byrd, Bert Acosta, Lloyd Bertaud, Clarence Chamberlin, "Case" Jones and such designers as Anthony Fokker and Gluseppe Bellanca, were not only amazed that a man would dare to set out in a machine like that or contemplate an oversea flight in it, but were also astonished that he could have come from the Pacific coast with only ne from the Pacific coast with only one stop in 21 hours and 40 minutes of actual flying.

Will Back Lindbergh.

St. Louis, May 25 (By A. P.).—
Whether Capt. Charles Lindbergh will compete in the Hawaiian flight for a purse of $25,000, announced today by James D. Dole, rests entirely with Lindbergh Maj. Albert B. Lambert, of St. Louis, one of the sponsors of the New York-to-Paris flight, told the Associated Press today.

"If Lindbergh does compete," said Lambert, "he will not fly the Spirit of St. Louis, but will have a new plane of the same type. He will be backed by the same group of St. Louis men who sponsored the New York-to-Paris hop, if he does patricipate."

Under plans revealed today by Lambert, the Ryan monoplane, Spirit of St. Louis, will be kept in St. Louis for Lindbergh's personal use and for exhibition purposes. The St. Louis backers plan the erection of a hangar on Lambert-St. Louis Field for Capt. Lindbergh's plane, as an inducement for the filer to stay in St. Louis, Lambert asserted.

"Lindberg will stay in the air service as he wants constant flying and we are providing a place for him to work and develop his ideas."

Lambert said St. Louis would back Lindbergh in any flight he wanted to attempt.

Paris, May 25 (By A. P.).—What were Lindbergh's first words on landing at Le Bourget is a question being animatedly discussed in Paris. According to some, he said: "Here I am; I have done it," while others insist he said, "Is this Paris?" But an eyewitness declared he simply remarked, "I am Charles Lindbergh," and this is confirm Stephane Lauzanne managing up the matter, so he asked the personally, "Is it true that you said 'I am Charles Lindbergh?' "Yes, that's what I said," was the answer,

"But why?" the editor asked.

deep-seated instincts from his Scandi-navian father.

deep-seated instincts from his Scandinavian father.

The Lindbergh family home was established in Little Fails, Minn., in 1886, and there "Silm" gained the rudiments of his education. First he went to public school and then to the Little Falls High School, from which he was graduated in 1918, when he was 16 years of age. He was an indifferent pupil, according to his mother, not studying very hard in those things which did not interest him. Mathematics he liked, but had little interest in English and grammar. But he did have one special flair, and that was for mechanics. He was always tinkering with this or that, seeking what made things "go" and if they couldn't be made to "go" better.

This fair caused him eventually to matriculate at the University of Wisconsin in 1921, and there he began to work his way through a course in mechanical engineering. Though "Silm" is far from being of the unsociable sort—his crooked grin and his kindliness of manner are proof of this—he made little effort to seek out friend-ships at the university. He had a few friends and some acquaintances, yes, but he mingled little in the social life of the institution. His whole interest was in engineering.

Interest in Experiments Those who were with him in the university say that he had an uncommon interest in experimentation, doing more of it than was really required for his engineering course. But the termination of an experiment was also the termination of his interest in that the termination of his interest in that particular thing, and he rarely turned in a report of what he had done.

As for experimentation, his mother tells of one of the first that came under her observation. It was when "Slim" was only a child. The family lived upstairs in a four-family house and the family living below possessed a much-petted Angora cat. "Slim" liked the cat—he has always been devoted to animals—but he was also a devoted experimenter.

Lambert said St. Louis would back Lindbergh in any flight he wanted to attempt.

Paris, May 25 (By A. P.).—Capt. Charles A. Lindbergh had one-tenth of his gasoline supply left when he landed at the Le Bourget flying field last Saturday night after flying from New York to Paris.

A committee of the Aero Club, which is homologating his record, measured what was left this morning in the captain's presence and found 200 liters. As he started with 2,047 liters, or 484 gallons and has 47½ gallons left, he used about 13 gallons an hour.

Rome, May 25.—The Italian Chamber of Deputies convened this afternoon. Lando Ferretti, president of the Fascist sport associations, notified the deputies that he had sent a telegram of congratulations to Capt. Lindbergh. Mention of the name of the American aviation hero caused a great demonstration, the deputies cheering and appliauding wildly. The great applause was renewed when Signor Ferretti read the text of Capt. Lindbergh's reply, which read:

Seals Kept Intact.

French aeronautical experts are breaking their necks to find out what wonders are contained inside the works of Lindbergh's bus, but the crafty Yankee thus far has refused to remove the seals that keep the secrets, if any, of the cylinder block inviolate. Engineers, crowding round as close as possible, give the ship the once-over, and although they have been told it has got a stock Wright whirlwind motor, they are skeptical and think Lindbergh is holding out something.

The plane itself, however, was carefully inspected without arousing vast technical interest, although none denies its lean beauty. But all point out its close family resemblance to the Fokker monoplane types which fly back and forth daily between Amsterdam and Berlin and which the French admit is the last word in plane construction.

Capt. Lindbergh's flight is having a strong political reaction besides arousing the unbounded enthusiasm of countless millions. The slim pilot's successful crossing has done much to ameliorate the Franco-American relations that the British, who at first were rather "snooty" about the schievement—featuring small headlines under other aviation news—now are red hot, insisting that Lindbergh visit England.
Ambassador the Marquis of Crews made three calls at the American Embassy, tendering official invitations to Lindbergh until he received the promise of the Yankee pilot that he would cross the channel.

Paris is beginning to find out my Lindbergh's promised flight over the town has not materialized and will not until Saturday. South Dakota will hold a proposal convention next winter for the purpose of putting up a list of delegates, or proposed delegates, to the national convention. These candidates and any opposing lists of candidates that may be put up will be voted on in March. North Dakota has primaries about the same time. The tests of sentiment in these two States, inasmuch as they are insurgent territory, will be awaited with keen interest by politicians. Under the circumstances, the proposed visit of the President to the Black Hills is regarded as especially important from a political point of view.

Indications multiplied yesterday that President Coolidge will make the Black Hills his summer home and that an early official announcement of the selection will be made.

Senators Norbeck and McMaster, of South Dakota, had a long talk with the President yesterday morning and in this talk stressed the attractiveness of the Black Hills, and especially of Custer Park, which is the official name.

Senators Norbeck and McMaster, of South Dakota, had a long talk with the President yesterday morning and in this talk stressed the attractiveness of the Black Hills, and especially of Custer Park, which is the official name of the State Park of South Dakota, in the most attractive part of the Black Hills region. They were much pleased with the conference and left the White House convinced that the President would go to their State and make the State game lodge his summer residence. They look for an early official announcement to this effect.

It was learned yesterday that both in White House official circles and among members of the South Dokota delegation in Congress the matter is considered settled. Only unexpected developments at the last minute, it is said, will upset the plan. In talking with callers yesterday it was stated the President gave the impression the matter was settled.

The President wants to be satisfied that there will be ample accommodations not only for the official entourage but for newspaper men and all others that may require to be established at Custer Park. Col. Ed Starling, of the secret service, who has already studied the situation, will make a further survey as to certain details, and if all requirements can be met the official announcement will be made.

STRATEGY OF BEATTY AT JUTLAND ASSAILED

London, May 25 (By A. P.).—Rear Admiral John E. T. Harper, who compiled a special report on the battle of Jutland, historic naval engagement in the world war, has just published a book, "The Truth About Jutland." He puts the vital facts of the battle into a new perspective tending to dispel the legend of "an incompetent Jellicoe and a Beatty with a Nelson touch."

Admiral Harper declares: "To Jellicoe must go the verdict of that impartial referee—accurate history."

It is indicated that Beatty's famous "Follow me" appeal to Jellicoe actually caused the van of British ships to converge less on the enemy's course than before.

Admiral Harper attempts to make it clear that Admiral Beatty, who was in command, of the fleet, lost the first round, that Jellicoe won the second, and that an omission by the admiralty prevented Jellicoe from achieving final

The power unit is driven by turbines of 25,000-shaft horsepower. The first incident which marred the completion of this majestic steamer at the Cramp Ship Yard, occurred on July 1, 1925, when a random rivet, tossed red hot from a portion of the superstructure, missed its mark and fell into the resinous pine superstructure of the scaffolding and started a fire that swept through the mass of pine timber.

The heat of the flames twisted and warped about 200 feet of the bottom plates and they had to be replaced considerably delaying the formal christening and launching.

The Loree plan for the new Southwest system was rejected recently by the Interstate Commerce Commission, which held that the financial program for the merger was unsatisfactory to the majority of its members. The control of lines by the small carriers was also opposed.

With the revision that will conform to the opinions of the commission, the new plan probably will be presented within ten days, it was made known by Mr. Loree, who seems confident that the new plan will meet with the approval of the government and of those who will be served by the system throughout the great Southwest.

It is thought that, under the new plan, either the Missouri, Kansas & Texas Line or the St. Louis Southwestern will be made the nucleus for the merger. In the former plan the Kansas City Southern, the smallest of the three, was the nucleus for the financial arrangement.

Termination of that agreement, involved in the breaking of relations, left two courses of action for the cabinet to consider. The first was whether, as a matter of policy, it would be desirable to continue the existing trade relations with the Soviet. The second was what Canada's position would be under the trade treaty if it was found not desirable to break official trade relations. relations.

Exciting London Rumors.

London, May 25 (By A. P.).-Rumors

London, May 25 (By A. P.).—Rumors of an exciting character are circulating in London as to the discoveries made in the police raid of Arcos, Ltd., the Russian trade organization.

It is reported insistently that the names of several members of parliament are on the lists of persons to whom money has been paid by the Soviet trade delegation, and the debate in the House of Commons tomorrow on the question of breaking off all relations with Soviet Russia is awaited with breathless interest by an expectant public. The fervent hope is expressed that the government will release more information about the discoveries.

The police are believed to have found Soviet codes which make it possible to decode messages exchanged between Moscow and the Soviet officials in London over a long period, including the time of the representative Europeans. Officials here are expected to call for some inquiry as to what these reports mean, especially as the United States Government has given the American delegation no authority to deal separately with Soviet officials, either informally or otherwise. The Soviet reports indicate that the negotiations are being carried on particularly by Henry M. Mr. Robinson, besides having many other interests, is president of the Union Oil Association and director of the Union Oil Association and Ivy Lee is closely connected with the Standard Oil Co. This has led to the belief here that the Soviet government expects the Standard Oil Co. to use its influence with the Government of the United States in favor of the Soviet, in return for contracts and concessions, which Soviet Russia is giving to the Standard Oil.

Following its modernization, the old coal-burning battleship, Florida, in standard trials conducted recently at Rockland, Me., attained a record speed of 22.32 knots, the fastest for battleships in the navy.

The standardization runs were to determine speed at which to run engines sending the vessel through the water at a given speed in knots per hour, and are done by running the ship over a measured mile course at varying engine speeds, noting carefully the elapsed time. Twenty runs were made, three each at speeds of 10, 12, 15, 17 and 19 knots, and the last five at full power.

FINAL ARGUMENT TODAY

(By Associated Press.)

The Board of Tax Appeals was asked yesterday by the Federal Government to fix the valuation of Ford Motor stock. as of March 1, 1913, for purposes of determining the final amount of taxes to be paid on such stock sold in 1919 by Senator Couzens, Republican, Michigan; the Dodges and other minerity holders.

by Senator Couzens, Republican, Michigan; the Dodges and other minerity holders.

Moreover the board was asked to hold that Internal Revenue Commissioner Blair acted legally in reopening the case and assessing an additional $30,000,000 in taxes after it had been settled by former Commissioner Daniel C. Roper.

Alexander W. Gregg, solicitor of the Injernal Revenue Bureau, told the board that in determining the value of the stock, as of March I, 1913, two things should be taken into consideration; the yield of the stock at that time and its future sales worth.

Calling attention that counsel for the taxpayers had insisted that $9,500 of that sale price per share represented value accrued after that date, Mr. Gregg sald this was "an astounding contention in the light of the record."

W. Hall Trigg, special Treasury counsel, cited numerous court records to support his contention that the internal Revenue Bureau had the right to correct any misrepresentation of fact or law in tax cases within the five year limit set by statute.

Argument of the case is to be concluded today with counsel for the taxpayers closing with a further showing in support of their contention that the settlement by former Commissioner Roper was final insamuch as no fraud or error had been shown.

LOQUACITY

Whose tongue with everlasting clack sets all men's ears upon the rack should be restrained by some new law that would padlock the wagging jaw. But caution should be used withal lest innocents should wrongly fall within the grasp of errin.; sleuth who can't distinguish 'tween the two. Now we are wont to eulogize the man who early fuel buys. and often offer sound advice on how to combat cold and ice We trust our chatter's understood, and hope it does the pub-lic good, for fact is that full bins today next winter dividends will pay.

the bankers' special on the night of June 8.

"While the District Bankers Association was organized in 1901," said Howard Moran, president, in discussing convention plans yesterday, "it was not until 1919 that there was introduced the plan for holding a convention out of the city. The idea was put forward by Maurice D. Rosenberg, president of the Bank of Commerce and Savings, and as president of the association he presided over the first convention, June 25 to 26, 1919, at Deer Park, Md.

"Many of us today were the pioneers who blazed the way and made possible what we then believed was an epochal event in the banking history of the District and which we now know to have been so. Year by year these gatherings have broadened in scope, enhanced in vital subjects considered and have borne a prolific fruition of accomplishment for the betterment of the business of banking."

Just at present all eyes are turned to the judges of the essay contest conducted each year by the District Bankers Association for members of the Washington Chapter, American Institute of Banking, as their decision soon to be rendered will determine which three members among the contestants will journey to Hot Springs to present the winning papers to the convention. The subject on which the entrants were asked to write was "The Improved Service to Customers That Has Been Made The subject on which the entrants were asked to write was "The Improved Service to Customers That Has Been Made Possible by the Policy of the Service Charge, and the Results to the Bank," and as it is expected that the committee on unprofitable business will have something to say about the improved service to customers, bankers are interested in hearing something of the reaction of those on the inside to the service charge.

Ample preparation is being made for the entertainment of ladies who attend the convention by a committee con-

THE BREAK WITH THE SOVIET.

The world eagerly awaits publication of the British white book on the subject of communist propaganda. The book will contain copies of documents captured in the recent raid on Soviet House, in London. Prime Minister Baldwin has intimated that the documents reveal some of the secrets of Russian intrigue in the United States as well as in Europe and Mexico and South America. Papers establishing the fact that the Moscow government is actively engaged in the antiforeign movement in China are also included in the book.

The forthcoming break between Great Britain and Russia means that the inevitable clash between European powers and Russia has been brought nearer. The Soviet must go forward or quit. It has been increasing its air strength and drilling its army. It has a good excuse for war with either Roumania or Poland. In order to survive, the Soviet must hold the people of Russia, and it can do this most effectively by starting a patriotic war for the recovery of Russian territory. The red army can be count-ed upon to fight bravely in such a cause.

If the Moscow leaders should decide that a foreign adventure would be more promising on the eastern front, they can make a casus belli of the raid upon Soviet headquarters at Peking.

Hereafter it is to be war to the knife between the British Empire and communist Russia. The war may take the form of inspired uprisings in British territories in the Far East. The enormous extent of Soviet intrigue throughout the world leaves little doubt that more than one uprising could be started by a single word from Moscow. Presumably this word will not be given until the whole train of explosives is set and ready. War may begin in obscure places, in the form of riots and insurrections. and spread thence to important countries. Once well started, it would be like other wars -no one could foretell its complications or its end.

One thing stands out clearly. The United States has no quarrel in Europe or Asia, whatever the communists have done. The Soviet intrigues in China, which have so stirred Britain, do not affect America, because this country has no concessions in China. A struggle between Moscow and the Chinese, or between Britain and Moscow, with China as the battlefield, would find the United States a neutral, although American sympathies would be strongly on the side of Britain.

It is only when the republics of this hemisphere are assailed that the United States becomes a party to the proceedings. It will not tolerate attempts upon the life of American republics. The Moscow regime has discovered that it can not hope to subvert Nicaragua. Its efforts to communize Mexico will result in against the communist government that has been saddled upon them. As for communist propaganda in South America, it is probable that Chile's energetic housecleaning under the administration of the new president, Gen. banez, will prove to Moscow that there is no hope of converting the men of free republics into devotees of the crazy doctrines of com-

LOVELACE'S "LUCASTA."

The rarities in English literature recently sold for high prices at Sotheby's in London. were all of great interest. They included early editions of works by the Earl of Surrey. Sir Philip Sidney, Shakespeare, Lord Bacon, Willfam Browne, George Herbert, Crashaw, Dryden, Gay, Prior, Pope, Samuel Johnson, Fielding, Mark Akenside, Charlotte Bronte and many others. It was a collection well calculated to make a bibliophile's mouth water.

Not the least interesting was a first edition of Richard Lovelace's "Lucasta," 1649, the volume in the preparation of which the cavalier poet beguiled the tedium of his second imprisonment. It has two plates by Faithorne. and fetched a price of £370, an amount which would have proved mighty useful to the author at various stages of his checkered career.

The eldest son of Sir William Lovelace, and educated at the Charterhouse and Oxford, Richard, at 16, was characterized by Anthony Wood as "the most amiable and beautiful nerson that ever eye beheld," and the portraits of him that have come down to us seem to justify this highly laudatory description. A royalist by predilection, Richard Lovelace was selected in 1642 by the County of Kent to present a petition to the House of Commons praying for a restoration of the king's rights. and for his boldness the long parliament threw the young man-he was then only 24-into grison. It is said that it was on that occasion, hile he was confined in the Gatehouse at Westminster, that he wrote his celebrated lyric, "Stone Walls do not a Prison make." rated under heavy ball, he devoted himself in vain to retrieving the fallen fortunes of the royal cause and, as the chronicler informs us, "consumed his whole patrimony in useless attempts to serve his sovereign." second imprisonment and a second release

Unfortunately, Lovelace did not live long enough to bask in the sunshine of the restoration. He died of tuberculosis in 1658, under extremely poor and miserable circumstances.

"Lucasta" was the fanciful name he gave to the lady of his love, generally identified as Miss Lucy Sacheverell. She was to him a Lux Casta, but having heard of his death from a wound in Dunkirk in 1646, she married an other suitor, Her lack of constancy broke her first lover's heart. The poetry in the volume called "Lucasta" partakes of the affectations and conceits of the day, but some of it is spirited, noble and sincere. Amid happier surroundings there can scarcely be a doubt that this typical cavalier poet could have produced much better work.

BOOSTING SUGAR PRICES.

The District has been subjected to an increase in the price of sugar, and the flood in the "sugar bowl" parishes of Louisiana is given as the excuse. Here is a job for the Federal Trade Commission.

The annual production of beet sugar in the entire country is estimated at some 820,-000 tons. Importations of all sugars amount annually to approximately 5,000,000 long tons, and last year consumption came to not quite 5,675,000 tons. The Department of Agriculture has just published the fact that reports received from all operating factories indicate conclusively that only 47,000 short tons of sugar were made from the entire 1926 cane crop of Louislana, and from a private source the prediction is made that the present crop would come to not more than 60,000 long tons.

If the latter guess is anywhere near correct, and if consumption remains static, the Louisiana crop this year would have produced in the neighborhood of only 1 per cent of the requirement. This small proportion nevertheless seems to be large enough to affect the price maintained in the general market The phenomenon is all the more interesting in view of the fact that the Cuban crop, from which country practically all sugar is imported, is a record breaker, with the price of raw sugar so low that producers are having difficulty showing a profit.

Something else, not the Mississippi floods, is responsible for the price increase. Whoever is responsible for the increase should be required by the Federal Trade Commission to prove that the increase is justified.

GO AFTER REAL CRIMINALS.

An organization of citizens for the promotion of law and order has opened offices in Washington. The fact that burglaries and holduns have been on the increase seems to warrant a little activity on the part of citizens in support of the police. But the new organization, unfortunately, appears to have decided to confine its attention to violations of the prohibition law. It has been assured of the cooperation of the police in ferreting out and apprehending the petty offenders who take advantage of the Volstead law.

In the meantime the heavy losses sustained by local merchants by burglaries and holdups have caused the Merchants and Manufacturers Association and the Chamber of Commerce to consider the situation, and it is quite possible that steps will be taken by those organizations to bring about more effective police action against major criminals.

The public will hardly approve a policy of detailing additional police to cooperate with volunteer "snooping committees" in pursuit of hind-pocket bootleggers when there is a shortage of policemen for the pursuit of real criminals. When holdup men with guns operate within a block of the White House it is time for Maj. Hesse to get after them, even if he must disappoint the ambitious amateurs who are about to call upon him for assistance in uplifting the public morals.

HENRY E. HUNTINGTON.

Henry E. Huntington, who died this week in Philadelphia, left two great memorials. The development of Los Angeles will serve always to remind the world of his commercial The Huntington Library and Museum skill. at San Marino is a monument to the effort he world. The ability to make much money and spend it wisely, inherent in many Americans, was well exemplified in the railroad builder. It is impossible to estimate the amount of money which Mr. Huntington made in the commercial world, or the portion of the wealth that he expended for art treasures. The immense profits growing out of the development of Los Angeles, as one of the larger cities in the United States, were shared in largely by his enterprises, and in the last decade his purchases in the art centers of the world surpassed those of any other individual. His agents were the top bidders at Sotheby's, Christie's and innumerable private sales, Public records show that he did not hesitate to pay $1,000,000 for collections that he wanted. As a result his library contains more specimens of the early printers' art than even the British Museum, and the walls of his gallery are decorated with hundreds of canvasses that the world has adjudged to be masterpieces. Mr. Huntington gave his treasure trove of books and paintings to the State of California and the world. He derived no selfish pleasure from his acquisitions, but shared them with all lovers of like things. With his death they come more than ever into the keeping of the public, for its pleasure and advancement. Such use of riches needs no defense.

FOREIGN TRUSTS.

In the so-called sisal sales combination case, the United States Supreme Court has held in substance that an enterprise whose purpose is to control the importation and sale of sisal, and produce a monopoly of both foreign and domestic trade and commerce in the article, is in violation of the Sherman antitrust law and section 73 of the tariff act of 1894 applying to the trust question.

The effect of the decision is to widen the field of operation of the American antitrust law and the tariff act touching combinations of persons or corporations in the importation of foreign commodities. Attempts to create a monopoly, to interfere with lawful trade or to increase the market price of the imported article in the United States are prohibited. The penalty of the statutes in this case runs against the American selling agents of the

The decision establishes a precedent that may apply with equal force to rubber, coffee and other commodities wherein it is charged interfere with lawful trade by increasing prices of the commodities when imported into the United States. American importers of such foreign commodities, are, under the decision, deemed to be in collusion or in a conspiracy with the foreign producers or exporters to interfere with lawful trade, and may be fined or imprisoned.

Congress investigated exhaustively the question of foreign control of rubber imported into the United States, as well as the system prevailing in the importation of coffee controlled by a South American combination. Several suggestions were made, looking to immediate retaliation, but nothing was done.

In answer to the charge that the United States under the Webb-Pomerene act is encouraging the formation of combinations for export of commodities by exempting them from antitrust laws, and at the same time penalizing combinations of foreigners with American selling agents and pronouncing the latter within the operations of antitrust laws, it may be said that the Supreme Court interprets and applies the law, but can not determine the wisdom of any policy.

Congress alone can remedy any apparent inconsistency or restraint of trade and commerce. If Congress deems the decision of the court an undue extension of the American antitrust principle, it can amend the law. There are indications that the antitrust and anticombination question in all its phases may be discussed in Congress with a view to the adoption of a more comprehensive and scientific plan, based upon economic laws. Americans interested in exports are anxious to avert severe retaliatory legislation against American combinations.

THE WAVE-LENGTH SCHEDULE.

The Federal Radio Commission has announced the new wave-length schedule to which the 600-odd broadcasting stations of the country must shift their operations begining at 3 a. m., June 1. A casual examination of the order brings to light many wave-length shifts and power cuts, with only a comparative handful of stations retaining their old channel or power.

The task of reallocating wave channels and powers has been difficult. It stands to reason that revisions will be necessary. Such revisions, however, should not be based on theory, and the commission is unqualifiedly right in insisting that before it listens to complaints of any nature, the new schedule must be subjected to the acid test of actual experi-

It is also emphasized that there are no onger vacant channels, that the stations now operative have absorbed every possible channel upon which radio waves may be dispersed. For this reason owners who feel that they have been slighted will be expected not only to show in what manner they have been discriminated against, but also to show specifically what other station should be required to give up its assigned frequency and why. This, too, is the only just course to pursue.

After all, the present reassignment is but temporary in nature, designed only to ascertain its effect upon broadcasting as an institution. The final decision rests with the public itself, and can only be made after a period of actual trial.

ATLANTIC WAY STATIONS.

The practical world is not slow to take advantage of the lesson taught by Lindbergh in his epic flight from New York to Paris Where one gallant figure has blazed the trail others will follow, and the ingenuity of man already is at work to make the task of those who come after the pioneer an easier and safer one.

Lindbergh himself pointed the way when he said that supply stations at Newfoundland and Ireland alone were needed to speed the day of regular aerial service across the Atlantic Ocean. Science is prepared to go a step further. Two engineering minds already have formulated plans for midocean landing fields, which would serve both as depots and beacons for air travelers of the future.

The conception of such artificial islands is ot new, but before today the sugge too dreamlike to attract commercial backing. Now one of the largest engineering firms in the world-the Du Pont de Nemours Co .- stands behind one inventor and the Merchants Association of New York may back his rival. If either engineering feat proves feasible the 1,900-mile crossing will be a much different one from the watery lane that Lindbergh traversed. One or two way stations in the midst of the waste of water will make a routine matter of what is now a heroic enterprise.

SEEKING STANDARDS.

The annual national conference on weights and measures goes into session today at the Bureau of Standards. Since 1905, when representatives of nine States met at the invitation of the bureau to consider standardized weights and measures, the conferences have been held, and the growth of the idea is best illustrated by the fact that last year there attended 230 delegates from 28 States and the District. The body has no legal status whatsoever, and contents itself merely with ascertaining the best thought on standardized weights and measures for transmission to State legislatures for enactment.

The movement for standardized weights and measures has been given the wholehearted support of both the public and manufacturers, the latter realizing that standards not only protect their customers, thus reacting to the best interests of the manufacturer, but that they also afford protection against unscrupulous competition. The model law which wa developed by the conference has been enacted by many of the States, and has generally stood the test of the courts. Recently, however, a judicial opinion held that the model law did not apply to the services rendered by a taxi, a laundry, rug cleaning establishments, slot weighing machines, and other organizations or devices selling similar personal services. The conference, therefore, will attempt at this session to evolve a clause for inclusion in the law to cover this development.

Another matter which will gain its attention is standardized tolerances, so that the manufacturer will have an ethical yardstick with which to measure permissible errors in quantity, weights or strength of parts. The conference is prosecuting an important job. one which de grees the full-hearted support

Happiness Within You

By ROBERT QUILLEN-

THREE men who had nothing of greater importance to do sat on a bench in the park and talked lightly of great matters, as men undertakes to interfere in the affairs drive an automobile is to assume in the will. They agreed that happiness is the thing most to be desired in

As they talked, a fairy appeared—this was a great while ago, when fairies were numerous—and asked each to make a wish.

The first man on the bench, reading from left to right, promptly wished for a million dollars: the second as promptly wished for unfailing health, which at first glance appears more sensible; and the third said: "I wish that honest men and rogues, beautiful ladies, scrubwomen and little children would greet me with friendly smiles; that dogs would wag their tails when they see me; that horses would rub where he would not be troubled with their noses against my shoulder and invite me to scratch behind their office seekers. I had been taught to ears; that doves would eat from my hand and birds nest in my yard," Well, it happened just as the men had wished, and then other things happened.

The man who obtained a million dollars got along rather well, except that his wife ran away with a famous tenor, and he drank too much liquor and almost spoiled his liver, and beggars nagged at him for money to support worthy causes, and he wasn't happy very much of the time.

The man who obtained unfailing health fared little better. Luck simply wouldn't attend him, and about half the time he was out of a in Pennsylvania seeking a public posubjected in this crisis must have been terrible, and the other day we saw the job, full of a wonderful appetite and empty of all other things whatsition, and that another, Col. Doubtless you think the third man was happy in a world full of friends, but he wasn't. He had ambitions, and when he made an effort him to take a scat in the Senate; but to do something of consequence all the people said: "The old dear! they wer only rumors sent broadcast He can't ever get anywhere with that easy-going disposition of his." And because they wouldn't take him seriously, he never amounted to a whoop and died a nobody, loved by everybody.

SINGERS ON AIR TONIGHT

Double Quartet From Glee Club to Broadcast Over WRC.

PIANO MUSIC SCHEDULED

A double quartet from the Catholic University Glee Club, under the direction of Leo Behrendt, will be heard for half an hour, beginning at 9 o'clock, over WRC tonight. A fine program is promised, including "Forsaken," "Bells of St. Mary's," "Pale Moon," "Ole Uncle Moon," an old student song, "Crambambull," and other selections.

Hans Barth, the radio pianist, will play Piano Concerto No. 4 of Beethoven, acclaimed my many critics as the greatest work of its kind, in the "Half Hour With Great Composers" to be broadcast at 7:30 o'clock. The half-hour this evening will be given over to the works of the great master, Beethoven, who composed only great symphonies not, for which he will be always remembered, but innumerable songs, cantatas, overtures, dance music, operas and a most imposing mass. Another of the plano selections to be played by Mr. Barth is "The Minuet in E Fist," which Mr. Barth which Mr. Barth which Mr. Barth will be heard during the Kith hour of music at 6:15 o'clock. Following this, the South Sea Islanders will be on the air. The Eskimos, Henri Schmid-Gregor, pianist, and the Le Paradis Band round out the WRC evening's entertainment.

An afternoon program, between 3 and 5 o'clock, will be imported from New York and will include "Fenners' Syncopated Orchestras," a talk on "The Home Beautiful," by Helen Eames, Syncopated Orchestras, a talk on "The Home Beautiful," by Helen Eames, Helen Hellweg, pianist; Sonis Trolana, soprano; Joel Coffey, popular planist, and "Round the World Stories," by Wanda Hilborn.

The regular early morning program will be heard as usual.

Norrine Norris Dain will open the WMAL program tonight with a 15-iniute rectal followed by the "Dough in the certal followed by the "Dough in the Wall program tonight with a 15-iniute region and a cycle for modern songs.

Norrine Norris Dahn will open the WMAL program tonight with a 15-minute recital followed by the "Dough Boys." William Charles Wolfe, accompanied by Edith Reed, will whistle, and W. Aifred Falconer will be heard in dialect readings. Anna Mendel and Marion Moreland, known as "The Record Breakers," will have a part in making things go at WMAL also.

The Harvesters will be heard over WJZ and the blue network in an interesting travelogue series, beginning tonight at 9 o'clock. A combination of song and story will take radio fans to

"I love the caressing touch and the delicate fragrance of Black and White Face Powder." says fescinating Miss Mollie Perlmutter: 54 W. 98th St., New York City. "This softly clinging powder helps my skin, never roughening it or enlarging the pores, but keeping it finetextured and silky-smooth as a baby's. It brings out every natural beauty of my complexion, and seems to add good qualities I'd never noticed before."

The tenderest skin gratefully accepts Black and White Face Powder because it contains nothing that can irritate or cause blemishes, but warm foreignesses. "What is the best manner in which to serve a supper in the summer? This supper is to be served to seventeen teach one to know that they have Reader of The Column."

This is but a part of the letter—which I quote that we may understand just what the answer applies to. This friend has one object surely, and this object the one we all have when we ask guests to our home. That is, that they shall have an enjoyable time. But—is food, quantities of delicious food, to be sure, but food nevertheless, the one thing for which these guests are garnered together? If so, then the repast must be all that this friend thinks it should be—plentiful, substantial and rememberable.

But frankly I feel that food is to a thinks it should be—plentiful, substantial and rememberable.

But frankly I feel that food is to a party 'what good music is to a lovely volce—the accompaniment that makes of the song perfection. In other words, the food should not stand out as the primary thing—but the conversation—the pleasures of contact with other people—the spirit of the evening should be like the lovely voice and the food, not too heavy, not too elaborate, not too conspicuous, but just enough and just right and most delicate; should, indeed, be the accompaniment and the excuse for the gathering together. As we are to have our salad recipes today I shall not take time here to give the menu with directions for this ome reader, but shall send to her a plan for a party that will, at least, in our opinion, be just the thing, with a light, attractive menu that allows for a cool house as evening falls, and a not too tired hostess.

And also, before we go on to the tired hostess.

And also, before we go on to the recipes, may I again thank our friends for the many very lovely letters that come here to us thanking us for the thing that we are attempting to do with and for the Homemakers of our community. The period of time that we have been together has been a great pleasure to the Housekeeper, and the letters that come filled with appreciation of our efforts are satisfaction and happiness to me.

Appetizing Summer Salad

(By Miss L. D.).

½ head lettuce.
½ small sized head green cabbage.
3 small green onions.
6 small red radishes.
2 cucumbers.
1 green pepper.
3 stalks celery.
2 firm, ripe tomatoes.
These vegetables should be thoroughly chilled. Wash and dry lettuce, shred it very fine and place in large porcelain bowl. Sired the cabbage very fine and place on top of lettuce. Silice the onions quite thin and place in bowl. Dice the cucumbers, green peppers, celery and tomatoes in turn and place in the bowl.
Over this pour, a few drops at a time, a dressing made of 1-3 cup of salad oil, 1-3 cup of vinegar or lemon in this dressing use a wooden salad fork to lift all the ingredients gently and mix them thoroughly. When thoroughly mixed serve the salad on individual plates.

Coleslaw. Coteslaw.

Cut the cabbage very fine, both lengthwise and crosswise of the head, making the shreds very fine. Place in a deep bowl and add the following ingredients: 1 finely chopped onlon, pinch of celery seed, 2 teaspoons of sugar, juice of half lemon, 2 or 3 tablespoons of dressing and pinch of salt. Cut up half of the green pepper and add to slaw. Mix thoroughly and taste; perhaps a little more sugar or salt may be needed to suit the individual taste. Then place in a refrigerator to chill.

Salad.

Have the carrot, turnip and beet grated in separate bowls and ready for serving. Wash lettuce and place on individual salad plates. On center of lettuce place a mound of slaw, making the slaw come to a point. With a teaspoon place a little grated raw beet around the slaw, then outside the beet place the grated white turnip and last circle the turnip with grated raw carrot. On the top of slaw peak place three thin strips of green pepper, in center of which place one olive.

Nancy Goes A-Shopping

The shopping eye fell on fairly frivolous articles today, along the line of prizes for bridge parties, or guest gifts, or a luncheon gift. Not guest gifts, or a luncheon gift. Not that these gifts are always afforded our guests, but it is an anchor to windward to have little giftable things in the house to use upon emergency. The first of the gift articles today are flat, attractively shaped, one ounce bottles of Godet's French perfume, bottles that come in little boxes, and that as a rule sell for $2.50 but which I discovered were priced at $1.00. They are to be had in two sorts of perfume, one Chypre and the other Marjolaine.

one Chypre and the other Marjolaine.

Our other articles is of the gift order too, and an especially unsual order at that. Imported from France, with the touch that for ages past France has managed to give to the little novelties her craftsmen put out, are to be had in a local shop, little frail glass animals—hollow animals—that are softly tinted in color and filled with a good perfume. These objects are of the sort to grace milady's dressing table, and would serve most suitably for a bridge prize. They are a novelty, but an attractive one, and there are little fawns in soft cream colored glass with black feet, fat little elephants in a soft shade of green, little pigs that are of the proper shade of pink and little black slender dogs. They would fill the surface of the open hand, these little animals, to give an idea of their size, and they cost just $1.00 each. Each animal has a little black nose, and the nose is a tiny cork which, when removed, allows the perfume to come out.

LITTLE THEATER.

Next week at the Little Theater Washington will have its first opportunity to see Emil Jannings in one of his greatest characterizations. "All for a Woman" is a thrilling tale of the French Revolution, and Jannings enacts the role of Danton, who was finally downed by the scheming Robespierre—giving this great actor one of his finest chances. Also on the bill will be the first showing outside of New York of the famous "Ballet Mecanique," which critics have proclaimed the abstract art of the camera and the motion picture at its best.

SHARP GAINS IN RAILS

Special to The Washington Post. New York, May 25.—After a period irregularity, caused by heavy profit tak-ing, stocks turned strong this afternoon

The nervous feeling apparent in the early trading was turned later into one of extreme confidence. The afternoon rally was led by such stocks as United States Steel common, General Electric. General Motors, Nickel Plate and Woolworth. Numerous new high records were scored and net gains for the day extended to 11%. this maximum improvement being in Nickel Plate, which sold as high as 233 and closed 1½ under the top.

The raising of the General Electric dividend, resumption of payments by Granby Mining after a lapse since 1910, continued record-breaking car loadings and some further Van Sweringen merger talk, were influences helpful to the regarded as optimistic in their findings. It was noticeable, however, that buying of steel shares ran principally to those of companies whose financial positions are such as might warrant higher dividend payments at the discretion of directors.

There were several spectacular demonstrations among the lower priced rails, with the sharp rise in Western Maryland to new record levels the feature. This stock closed near the new peak, 3½ points net higher. The forenoon selling pressure was inspired by profit taking and by expectations of a stiffening in call loan rates as a result of the heavy demand for funds for monthened settlements and holiday requirements. Banks called upward of $20,000,000, causing a firm tone in the money market and removing the likelihood of a reduction in the 4½ per cent renewal rate this week.

Considerable profit-taking developed in specialties at a time when usually inactive stocks were being pushed forward. Weakness again developed in American Woolen preferred and common, both issues dippling to the lowest prices in many years and the common closing 1½ down and the preferred off 2½, Other weak spots were Real Silk Hose, Victor Talking, Lacled Gas, Pittsburgh and West Virginia and International Silver.

In the afternoon bulge Baldwin went to a new high, as did Erie first preferred, Great, Western Sugar, on the 3-to-1 basis stock split news from Denver, Ot tention.

As a group, the oils did little or nothing in reflection of the developments in the meeting of Southwest oil operators here today, the financial community being not particularly hopeful of favorable results from it.

The foreign exchange market showed a firm tone generally, with lire in

BONDS DISPLAY ACTIVITY

Trading Again Is in Reduced Volume: Erie D 4s Among the Day's Leaders.

FOREIGN GROUP IS DULL

New York, May 25 (By the Associated Press).—Fractional irregularities occurred in today's bond market, in which trading was again in reduced volume. Waning of interest was attributed to the approach of the holiday and the temporary stiffening of the money market.

Erie "D" 4s again jumped into position as a leader, nearly $700,000 of the bonds changing hands at prices up to 112. Chesapeake Corporation 5s railled slightly and there was considerable accumulation of International Great Northern 6s. Four April earnings statements had a tendency to restrict trading in railroad liens.

A few industrial and public utility liens displayed activity, White Rewing Machine 6s selling up 3 points to their previous high of 118 and International Telephone 5½s also duplicating their recent best figure. Davison Chemical 6½s dropped more than a point on profit-taking.

Foreign bonds were dull and without definite trend. United States Government issues were irregular.

NEW YORK COTTON.

NEW YORK COTTON.

New York, May 25 (By A. P.).—An opening decline was followed by advances in the cotton market today, but demand was supplied by preholiday realizing and prices later sold off. October declined from 18.76 to 18.53 and closed at 16.60, the general market closing steady at net declines of 5 to 8 noints.

The market opened steady at a decline of 2 to 6 points under selling inspired by relatively easy Liverpool cables, but soon turned firmer on covering and fresh buying, which weather reports showed further rains in central belt sections where dry weather is needed. July advanced to 16.39, while December sold up to 17.00 and January to 17.06, net advances of about 9 to 11 points, but at these prices the market met more realizing.

The weekly review of the weather to 16.39, while December sold up to 17.00 and January to 17.08, net advances of about 9 to 11 points, but at these prices the market met more realizing.

The weekly review of the weather bureau was considered a standoff by some traders, but was evidently no more unfavorable than 17.00 been anticipated, and its failure to stimulate fresh buying, no doubt, increased a disposition to take profits in advance of the approaching three-day adjournment. At any rate, the selling became a little more active. Much of it was attributed to liquidation of Wail street or commission house long accounts, and there may have been some local selling for further reactions on the outlook for further of 16.77 and January to 16.83, or 10 to 14 points net lower, but offerings tapered off somewhat in late trading, and last prices showed rallies of some 6 or 7 points on covering.

A private crop report placed the condition at 72.4 compared with 72 percent a year ago and pointed to a decrease of 9.3 per cent in acreage. These figures failed to attract much comment and were not considered a prominent factor in the day's market, although the condition may have been slightly higher than expected and the decrease in acreage fell slightly under previous reports.

CHICAGO GRAIN.

CHICAGO GRAIN.

Chicago, May 25 (By A. P.)—An avalanche of selling overtook the grain markets today after a wild new upturn. Much of the selling was to realize profits, but there was also speculative selling by traders who figured that advances of late had been too rapid. A sensational price bulge at Winnipeg was the chief new bullish incentive today.

Chicago closing quotations on wheat were unsettled, 16 to 2½ cents net lower, with corn 1½ to 1½ cents down, oats 3½ cent off to ½ cent up, and provisions showing 7 to 60 cents decline.

Altogether the selling pressure exected agains wheat shough pressure exected agains wheat shough buying at all times—was on a large scale. Contributing to the—late decline were reports that 200,000 bushels of wheat at other market centers had been purchased to come here for delivery on May contracts. There were also late indications of better weather Northwest, and assertions that reports of crop deterioration Southwest had been exaggerated.

All deliveries of wheat and rye, however, as well as deferred deliveries of corn and oats jumped early today to new high-price records for the season. An extraordinary upturn of nearly as weather hindrance to Canadian seeding was also true that figures on the surplus of exporting countries had been lifted 40,000,000 bushels. Some buying was also based on predictions that forthcoming unofficial domestic crop estimates will indicate a lower-yield than May returns, but all bullish factors were being virtually ignored as the day came to an end.

Corn and oats swayed with wheat. Better weather, too, for corn planting was also based on predictions that forthcoming unofficial domestic crop estimates will indicate a lower-yield than May returns, but all bullish factors were being virtually ignored as the day came to an end.

Lakes on Course and Back Tees Make Scores High.

Winner Has 80 Card: Only 13 of Field Better 90 Mark.

By HENRY LITCHFIELD WEST.

By HENRY LITCHFIELD WEST.

A PROCESSION of rain-soaked golfers was the Indian Spring golf course yesterday and came into the clubhouse with high scores and maledictions upon the weather. Owing to the heavy condition of the course and the fact that drives were made from the back tees, very few of the golfers were able to reach even the par 4 holes in two shots, and the majority of the cards were decorated with 7s, 8s and 9s.

With the cups buried under ministure lakes, accurate putting was impossible and most of the golfers used mashes to pitch across the small oceans which confronted them,

John C. Shorey, Argyle, led a field. of more than 100 players with a card of 80, nine strokes over par, and even this comparatively high card, although a fine performance under the adverse conditions was four strokes lower than any other and thereby tightened their above second place. The Browns used five second place. The Browns used five pitchers in the first game to stop the Chicago batters. In the second game the Browns held the Sox scoreless until the fifth, when B. Falk walked and circled the bases on two sacrifices and a wild throw.

New York, May 25 (By A. P.).—The Chicago district, with 115 of the record national entry of 356 golfers, tops the list of seventeen areas that will contribute their quota to the field for the national open golf championship at Oakmont, Pa., June 14, 15 and 16. This was disclosed today by Herbert H. Ramsay, secretary of the United States Golf Association, in making public the detailed distribution of entries filed and places allotted by districts. With the addition of 40 "exempt" stars, American members of last year's "first 31" and 9 visiting British professionals, the list totals 896 players but only 150 will be qualified. Chicago showed an increase of only two over its 1926 entry total, but this was enough to outstrip Pittaburgh, which showed the biggest increase, 68, as a result of proximity to Oakmont, and totaled 113.

By FRANK H. YOUNG.

By FRANK H. YOUNG.

BECAUSE of wet grounds at Jersey City, where the Nationals were scheduled to play the "Skeeters" yesterday in one of those exhibition things, the contest was declared off. Continued rains had made the field a regular quagmire, according to reports, and the Harrismen "walked right in and turned around and walked right out again."

Instead of returning to the Capital after Tuesday's game in Baltimore, they proceeded to New York, making their headquarters there until after the two double-headers scheduled with the Yankees on Friday and Saturday. They made the jump to Jersey City yesterday, but did not linger long, returning in the afternoon to the Big Town, where they will rest up today for tomorrow's pair of battles.

The four games which the Nats

The four games which the Nats play in New York this week-end, are most important ones to them. Babe Ruth and his band of sluggers are now five and a half games ahead of the Harrismen. They meet the Philadelphia Mackmen in a twin bill this afternoon and their margin may be smaller by tonight—who knows?

In any event, Manager Harris figures this short series with the Huggmen as a most "croocial" one, seeing in it an opportunity for his team to cut down the difference between the two outfits to nearly nothing.

Within the past week the Capital City team has improved in leaps and bounds and right now, for the first time this season, it is beginning to show the class expected of it. Injuries, illnesses and pitching weaknesses have played prominent parts in their failure to get away well, but gradually the absentees have been returning to the fold, the comeback of Walter Johnson, as indicated by his performance in Baltimore Tuesday, capping the cilmax in this respect.

There is no telling in what order Harris will use his pitchers in this

Cyril Tolley By Haley

Yankee Retention of Title Possibility quartet of contests with the Big Town team. Horace Lisenbee is sure to be one of the starters in tomorrow's twin bill, with Bump Hadley possibly drawing the assignment in the other games. After the former Brown collegian's good showing as a starter against the Tigers in Detroit Saturday, Harris indicated that he planned to use him in the New York series. However, he may switch to Gen. Alvin Crowder, who is showing indications of a return to the form which marked him as a comer last season. After Upest.

U. S. Youth Surprises British Veteran With Game.

HOYLAKE, England, May 25 (By A. P.).—Edwin H. Haley, tall New York youth who entered the This will leave Hollis Thurston and Walter Johnson to toll in the two Saturday contests. The former White Sox flinger was most effective against the Yanks here Monday.

New York youth who entered the British amateur golf championship "just for fun" and stayeds to beat Cyril Tolley today, has turned America's bid for retention of Jess Sweetser's title into a rather serious affair.

Playing in his first big tournament, Haley today eliminated the famous British star in a sensational match fought to the last green before the 23-year-old American won, one up. In defeating Tolley, Haley conquered the man generally favored to battle in the final of the championship with Roger Wethered, another former titleholder.

Two more days of the stiffest sort of competition loom before Haley, with Wethered, who downed Ernest Hassell, 3 and 2, today after an up-hill fight, barring the path toward the close of the week. If his winning streak continues, Haley will play two matches tomorrow, the first against Maj. Keith Thornburn, Sunningdale crack, and the second wit H. D. Gillies.

Both are excellent match players, Although Baltimore is a minor league team, it takes real pitching to beat it and the fact that Johnson granted but five hits in five inning while experimenting with his leg indicates that he will give the Yankees plenty of trouble when he "bears down," something his slift against the Orloles convinced hin he can do with safety. The Old Master was a trifle wild, but this was only to be expected, considering the fact that the leg which has kept him inactive was broken during his early trainin; days. Trying to guess which New York pitchers will face the Nats in this series is most difficult. Today's double-header with the Mackmen will use up at least two and Hugglins is not blessed with many top-nothers. Rain for the past two days has made all of the Yankee staff available. As the A's are closer to the leaders than are the National with results and the subtraction.

Both are excellent match players, and if Haley survives he probably will meet Wethered.

Haley's terrific battle tocay was a severe test to the former Williams College player, who is unaccustomed to wielding his clubs before a large tournament gallery.

"I may have seemed confident, but honestly I have never been so scared in my life as when hemmed in by that crowd around the last green," he said. nd there were at least five hole ancing around in the grass before me was lucky enough to pick the right

Hoylake weather conditions perhaps

Hoylake weather conditions perhaps favored the American. It was a calm, sunshiny day without trace of the gale that had whipped over the course during the previous day.

It was by sheer superiority of his game, however, that Haley won over Tolley. The rangy, broadshouldered youth with the free easy swing showed perfect golf temperament. While Tolley slashed at the ball in characteristic manner, clouting great distances and trusting to golfing chance to escape bunkers, Haley plodded steadily from tee to green as if he had been playing in championshir for years.

Fortune favored the Englishman on the outward nine, his ball bounding through and over bunkers to good lies, but he paid the pen-alty for wildness on the incoming Haley won the first hole with a birdie three, but his game slipped a bit as Tolley struggled gamely to win or halve. The American dropped three holes in succession to leave Tolley two up at the turn.

Then Haley steeled himself and staged a remarkable comeback. The American won the thirteenth, fifteenth and eighteenth holes and halved the others.

His finest shots were necessary to get a par four on the 401-yard twelfth, where his second trickled to rest on a bunker face. Haley played out of the difficult lie with a niblick and ran down a 12-footer for a half, while Tolley's ball lay dead to the pin.

And doubt as to Haley's ability in the minds of the gallery of sev-eral thousand, vanished at the 394-yard seventeenth when his drive equaled that of Tolley, famed for his heavy hitting.

Haley dropped the ball on the green with a mashle shot exactly like Walter Hagen's at the same hole in 1924, when the American professional won the open championship largely through this shot. Tolley was in the sand but he blasted out and saved himself by running down a long putt for a half in fours.

On most of the other holes, Haley today.

August Nordone, the New Rochelle caddie master, and William Burke, 25-year-old Greenwich entry, covered a sodden course and conquered a steady drizzle in 71 strokes, one below par.

Wee Bobby Cruickshank, representing the Progress Club, and Joe Turness, of Elmsford, were the only other competitors who could boast of par golf or better in today's eighteen holes, each getting a 72.

The majority of the "big guns" came through with scores that may keep them in the running if backed with a good game tomorrow. Gene Sarazen, Johnny Farrell, Willie MacFarland and Leo Diegel produced 73's to get a tie for fourth place. John Golden splashed home with a 78, and "Long Jim" Barnes got an 80.

It was no day for golf, however, and Walter Hagen was among those who found things not exactly to their liking. Hagen got a bad start and, although his game picked up on the last nine holes, his card showed an 82.

In third place today were Frank Ball, of Broadmoor; John O'Connor, of Pomingo, and Ralph Leaf, of Bonnie Briar. Their scores of 74 topped the list for a long time, and Ball, the first to tee off, appeared to have set the pace for the field, weather conditions considered.

Cruickshank was one over par going out. Starting the second nine he began to hit his game. On the eleventh, twelfth and thir-teenth holes, he scored birdies. He had a chance to get a tie for first place, but took a five, one over par, on the 542-yard eight-eenth hole. He played the last three holes in a downpour.

three holes in a downpour.

Turnesa's score was featured by a beautiful 30-yard putt for a birdie two on the seventh hole. Playing with Hagen and Dlegel, Turnesa kept slightly ahead for the first nine and pulled away coming home.

At the end of tomorrow's eighteen holes, the qualifying field will be cut down for the 36-hole final Friday. Players, who are at least eight strokes higher than the twelfth man in the standing, will qualify.

The amateur contingent in the Metropolitan open is small. Silas M. Newton, of Siwanoy, had the best score among the nonprofessionals. Arthur Yates, unattached, followed him closely with a 78.

Hard 1927 Grid Schedule Booked for Devitt Preps

Ten Games Listed, With Battle With Gonzaga for District Prep Title Yet to Be Arranged. Season Opens October 1.

WHEN Devitt Prep faces Gonzaga in the latter part of November or early in December in the an-nual battle between these rivals to demacy, it can asfely be predicted that Devitt will trot out on the field a hardy, experienced lot of players, pos-sibly no hardier than the average school eleven, but especially experienced.

A schedule of ten games, only four with local schools, has been announced by Manager Louis Brown for the Devitt Football Team for next season. Aside from the extended grind of ten games, the fact that several of the leading schools of Virginia and Maryland appear on the schedule, makes this list of battles the stiffest ever undertaken by a Devitt eleven.

Meeting Episcopal High on Oc-tober 1 at Alexandria, Devitts opening game, contrary to being the usual "set-up," is certain to take on the aspects of a midseason ontest. The freshman teams of Catholic University and George Washington also will be met.

Washington also will be met.

Last year, Devitt ran wild with the George Washington yearling outfit, but with the "one year" rule in force at G. W., the 1927 fray promises to be a different matter.

The Tome School of Fort Deposit, Md., that has turned out several champion teams, will provide the keenest opposition for the Devitt eleven in its out-of-town games.

The date for the Gonzaga-Devitt encounter has not yet been definitely settled, but it has been officially decided that the two teams will meet.

October J., Episcopal at Alexandris; S. O. U. Freshmen at C. U. Stadium; 14. Eastern at Eastern Stadium; 22. Tome at Fort Deposit; 28. Caivert Hall at Baltimore.

November J. G. W. Freshmen on Monument Ground, Manual College at Dayton, Massanutten Military Academy at Winthester, Va.

December 3, Gonzaga at American League

FINAL EVENT WINS MEET FOR. C. U.

Vault Defeats Gallaudet.

CARL JUTEN'S tying effort for first place in the pole vault, the last event on the card, gave the Catholic University track team a 60-to-57 decision over Gallaudet College at the Brookland Stadium yesterday.

The meet was closely contested from the start, but owing to the wet track

The meet was closely contested from the start, but owing to the wet track and slippery take-offs for the field events, the marks were not noteworthy. The feature was Gallaudet's splendid owing, as the Kendall Greeners had not been given more than an outside chance of extending the Cardinal track-

Until the last three events were run off, Coach Supplee's men were leading their opponents, 47 to 43, chiefly through the brilliant work of Byouk and Hienrich in the track events. The former was the high point winner of the day, with a total of 20 points.

To mass this total the Gallaude star, captain-elect of the Kendall Green star, captain-elect of the Kendall Green Football Team, scored first places in the 440 and discus, a tie for first in the pole vault, second in the 220-yard low hurdles and shot put, and third in the broad jump. Had the high hurdles been included in the events, Byouk would probably have increased his total, as the high sticks are his specialty.

his total, as the high sticks are his specialty.

Langley was the high point scorer for Catholic University, with a total of 16 points. Langley scored three firsts—in the 100, 220 and 880, and third place in the discus.

The pole vault competition ended in a triple tie among Yoder and Byouk, of Gallaudet, and Juten, of Catholic University. The latter experienced difficulty on his take-offs, and made the 9 foot 8 inch mark only on his third attempt. He spiked himself on this Jump, and dropped out, but the Gallaudet vaulters were unable to top this mark.

Gothamites is likely to use his two best this afternoon, which should give the Nats an edge in their contests.

Sam Bice. Nat right fielder, finally has decided to "give himself up," and he will not participate in the New York games. Following a grip atrack, he suffered from sinus trouble, but tried to get back in harness sooner than he should.

while his gameness should be commended, he really handicapped his team by his action. Monday, however, he reported that, in addition to pains across his forehead, his throat was sore He participated in that Monday game, but afterward asked for and was given permission to lay off and give the physicians a chance to cure him.

A thorough overhauling showed that Sams' troubles were not altogether due to inflammation in the sinus tubes, that he also had several abscessed teeth, three of which were infected and had poisoned his entire system. These and another questionable one were yanked yesterday. The player probably will be out of commission for a week.

Because of his illness, he has hit no

TECH LOSES STAR FOR

Juten's Tie in Pole Cassassa's Program Is Lacking; Entries Announced.

WHILE the annual interhigh school track meet at the Central Stadium tomorrow may not produce the brilliant performances of previous ones, the fight for point honors is likely to be even keener than

The teams of the various schools are slightly below par of former years, but the closeness of the race and the in-ability to pick any one outstanding team as the winner makes the affair as interesting as any of the last few years.

It is a toss-up between Central and Tech for first place honors. One factor that will figure prominently in what the final outcome will be is the performance of Coach Rath's Eastern formance of Coach Rath's Eastern squad.

Central should pick up from four to nine points in the high jump, and such men as Kline and James in the field events and Keller in the sprints are almost sure to take some points.

Tech will rely upon Jeter and McDonald in the field events, although neither has set anything on fire in the various meets this spring. Haveil and Blackistone are good quarter milers.

Eastern High School is strong in the sprints, liaving in Talbert, Clow. Zambreny and Klappas capable performers. Cosimano has shown some form in the hurdles and some of the field events this spring.

hurdles and some of the neid events this spring.

Western, with a small and a weak squad, will not be in the running.

The strict interpretation of the rules governing this meet is causing one man—Paul Casassa, of Tech—an opportunity of competing. Casassa, though graduating from Tech this year in addition to being an honor student, can not compete because the strict wording of the rule states that one must take four studies in the semester previous to competing.

Casassa, who was told he had enough redits to graduate, took only three tudies this last semester. He will not compete unless the authorities stretch

COLLYER'S COMMENTS On the SPORT of KINGS AIR STAR. Well, brother, as I live and seek the best on the market and probably "secure dynamite," I see the "spot" to gather some of Uncle Sam's negotiable green. They never shipped FAIR STAR from Maryland just to give her a buggy ride. She goes in the fifth spasm down at Churchill Downs and the result will never be close. Just hustie over to your favorite corner store and lay your mazums on the old beezer. Another hot tamale at Churchill Downs is GIB-BONS. This one has had two races under his belt and is now ready for the issue. Toss out all that has gone before. # Bill to O. K. Mutuels

Bill to O. K. Mutuels

Before Florida House

Tallahassee, Fla., May 25 (By A. P.)
Senator John W. Watson, of Miami, introduced today in the upper house of the Florida Legislature a bill to legalize the pari-mutuel system of betting on horse racing in Dade County (Miami) through the medium of a referendum in that county. The bill was referred to the committee on miscellaneous legislation, of which he is chairman.

Under the provisions of the bill an election would be held upon authority of 25 per cent of the qualified voters and a racing commission, appointed by the governor, would be created in the county if the electorate approved of the wagering plan. Fifty cents of each admission would go to a county advertising fund.

I am a young man engaged to a sweet little girl in the West and finding it quite impossible to make a Western trip, as business will be hurt badly if I did. My friend in a very nice girl of good people, but a see have a year before our marriage takes place, I believe she is going on wild rides with men, in fact, I have been told so much by her people. I will forgive and forget what has already happened if I can find some way of keeping her from these wild parties in the future year. Just what would you suggest? I have a good financial standing and have sent very many gifts of jewelry and flowers. I am willing to give a liberal donation for your services. Hoping to read an answer in your column, I remain

Sincerely, HARRY.

Harry, deer boy. I'll gladly donate the advice, if you will promise to "take" it—even as a gift! But I feel you will not follow the only advice I can offer in the circumstances—for I am going to tell you to gracefully withdraw from your engagement. Do this diplomatically, as the fact that your flance's family are supplying these disturbing bulletin, leads me to suspect they are endeavoring to "crowd" you into matri-cally, as the fact that your flances's family are supplying these disturbing bulletins, leads me to suspect they are endeavering to "crowd" you into matrimony—and probably because of your "good financial standing." Is your flances's mother a woman of the same class as your own mother? Or are you involved in a one-sided infatuation? Wild rides with men does not sound very promising. The girl in love and within a year of marriage has other interests than wild rides with men. Either your "sweet little girl" is afflicted with a rather coarse nature or with a family lower than average, since they malign her to the man who loves her. Watch your step.

ner to the man who loves her. Watch your step.

There is something in all this that makes caution very necessary. After all a woman who can not order her life to meet the exigencies it presents, is either too immature, or too dumb to make a success of a venture into matrimony. Any girl living today can

Average Girls

THE average American type, according to the best authorities, is about 5 feet 6 inches tail, with brown hair, gray eyes, and fresh coloring. She is the typical 'smart average:" the woman for whom the great designers work. She may be the most thoroughly chic of any possible type, but there are a number of things that she must avoid. Extremes, for instance, are not for her. Brilliant colors, highly sophisticated lines tend to fade her out—to make you forget the woman in looking at the dress. On the other hand, pastel shades and too youthful lines may make her insignificant.

other hand, pastel shades and too youthful lines may make her insignificant.

She is at her best in such a costume as the evening dress that Vogue has sketched here. It is made in jade green chiffon. The under part of the double flange on bodice and skirt is in yellow so pale that it is almost a cream—a charming and unusual color combination. The long lines of the double flange give dignity and distinction to the dress, the bolero and the deep draped girdis decided; accent its chic. In the sketch is shown a pin made in imitation of an old paste piece instead of a flower—a brilliant touch that has decided chic. The stockings are of so neutral a beige that they exactly match this woman's skin. Her slippers are pearl kid in jade green to match her dress. In such a frock she has an elegance and a dignity that make her far more distinguished than the woman who obviously plays up to her type. her type. (Copyright, 1927.)

THE pointer for today is: DECLARER SHOULD PLAY HIS CARDS IN THE CLOSED HAND AS DECEPTIVELY AS POSSIBLE. Yesterday's Hand. Yesterday's Hand. A-K-4-1-2 will probably induce East to piace the Deuce in West's hand, and to continue the suit, thinking that West is longest than South. It will be noted that it at this trick, East should shift the Hearts, he would save game; but with the Diamonds continued, the Declarer would make game without difficulty.

Today's Problem.

In the following deal, look at the hand of each player and determine what you think he should bid in his turn; in that way you will decide what the final contract should be. Then decide what four cards should be played on the first trick and fill in pencil on the answer slip given below.

HOW TO KEEP WELL

=By DR. W. A. EVANS=

SEWER AIR OFFENSIVE, BUT NOT HARMFUL.

A T a recent meeting of the State Medical society Dr. W. S. Bain-bridge entertained an audience with a discussion of the "Fundamental Causes of Disease." He used as a text the story of the play "The Servant in the House." It is true he used this them symbolically, but he failed to correct an error in this play which some one should correct.

The main theme of "The Servant in the House" is the virtue of humble, homely, self-sacrificing service-service for service's sake. But it builds its sermon around an error which has too long gone uncorrected. For a certain reason a great, showy church is built for a people. But in the building of the church a pipe to the sewer is left untrapped and sewer gas flows into the aiter to worship are made sick by breathing the sawer gas. The servant of the house ascrifices himself. Finally the pipe is cleaned and perhaps trapped. No sewer gas seezees and all the pipe is cleaned and perhaps trapped. No sewer gas escapes and all is well.

The play is fine and dramatic. It puts over a fine point in ethics. Incidentally, however, it helps to keep alive an old fetish, one that should have been buried in lime a long time have been buried in lime a long time ago.

There is no such thing as sewer gas properly speaking. The term is no ionger used in good public health circles. We now apeak; of sewer air. Sewer air is just ordinary air containing varying quantities of gases formed in the course of decomposition of organic matter.

Those who have learned to recognize the scale of odors of sewer air are exthetically offended by it. They don't think it smells nice. Those who have been trained to fear it are sometimes made sick, not so much by the poisons it contains as by worry, anxiety and fear lest it poison them.

Research has shown that the dosage of decomposition gases found in the lawer air are not poisonous. Bacterial malyses of sewer air show that it con-

The close-fitting, one-quarter sieeve is more in evidence among wash silk dresses than the aleeveless models, popular for many seasons. MODISH MITZI

ODERNIST decoration has drawn away from its original tendency toward an almost nightmare quality and is becoming steadily more adaptable to every-day living. In the bedroom arrangement sketched above is shown a rather amusing treatment of a bedroom group, in which restraint is coupled with the advantages of space economy and conventions. Yet it is unmistakably modernistic in feeling. Designed to fill a wall space from end to end, this scheme suggests itself as of peculiar suitability to a small apartment bedroom. The bed, while more comfortable than many of conventional construction, takes up far less space, and the closets provide sufficient cupboard room to make possible the use of less furniture intended for storage purposes. The Trust Agreement will provide for a semi-annual Sinking Fund beginning December 1, 1928, of $1,000,000 in cash or its equivalent in Debentures at the current Sinking Fund redemption prices. This Sinking Fund is calculated to retire over 50 per cent of these Debentures by maturity

TAX PROVISIONS: The Company will agree to pay interest without deduction for any Federal income tax not exceeding 2% which it or the trustee may be required or permitted to pay thereon or retain therefrom and to reimburse the holders of these debentures resident in the respective States, if requested within 60 days after payment, for the Pennsylvania four mills tax, and for the Massachusetts income tax not in excess of 6% per annum of the income from such deben-

For further information regarding the company, these debentures and the security therefor, attention is called to the letter of Frank Phillips, Esquire, President of the Company, copies of which will be furnished on request and from which it will be noted, among other things,

Phillips Petroleum Company, incorporated in 1917 under the laws of the State of Delaware, is one of the largest producers of crude oil and natural gas and the largest manufacturer of natural gasoline in the United States. It operates producing properties in Kansas, Oklahoma, Texas, Louisiana, Arkansas, Kentucky and New Mexico, having a production daily of approximately 75,000 barrels, gross, and 55,000 barrels, net, of crude oil and approximately 500,000 gallons, net, of natural gasoline.

The company has recently purchased control of the largest gas utility in Oklahoma, Oklahoma Natural Gas Corporation, which furnishes gas, either retail or wholesale, to the principal towns and cities of Okahoma, including Tulsa, Oklahoma City, Muskogee, Okmulgee, Sapulpa, Shawnee, Guthrie, Elreno and Norman. Acquisition of control of this property makes Phillips Petroleum Company one of the largest producers, purchasers and suppliers of natural gas in the industry. Purpose of Issue: The proceeds of these debentures will be used to provide funds for the retirement of current indebtedness, including that occasioned by purchase of the major portion of the stock of Oklahoma Natural Gas Corporation, for additions and development of properties and to increase working capital. Upon the issuance of these debentures the company's funded debt will consist of this issue of $40,000,000 51/4% gold debentures due 1939. The consolidated balance sheet of March 31, 1927, after giving effect to the receipt of Assets: the proceeds from this issue, shows net assets after deducting all liabilities other than funded debt of over $150,000,000 or more than 375% of this issue. The company now has outstanding 2,407,082 shares of no par value capital stock, of which the present market value based on current quotation is over $100,000,000.

Earnings: The consolidated earnings of the company and its subsidiaries, except Oklahoma Natural Gas Corporation, for the past five calendar years have been as follows:

During the five years shown above net earnings after deducting reserves for depreciation and depletion, but before deducting interest and income taxes, averaged $11,822,498 annually, or more than 5½ times the annual interest requirements of $2,100,000 on these debentures. In 1926 such net earnings were more than 11½ times these annual interest requirements. While earnings for the first quarter of 1927 were in excess of those for the corresponding quarter of 1926, more recent earnings reflect the present condition of overproduction in the oil industry, which in my opinion is in the process of

During the past five years the company's net income after all operating expenses, taxes and interest paid during the period amounted in round figures to $93,600,000, of which only $19,200,000 was distributed in cash dividends and $74,400,000 (of which $43,500,000 was appropriated to depreciation and depletion reserves) was reinvested in the company's property. The investment of these funds has been reflected in the rapid and substantial growth of the company's business

Trust Agreement: The trust agreement will provide that, except for purchase money, mortgages, mortgages then existing on properties hereafter acquired and pledges of current assets to secure loans for not more than twelve months in the ordinary course of business, neither the company nor any subsidiary (except Oklahoma Natural Gas Corporation) may create any mortgage on its property or pledge any of its assets without securing these debentures equally and ratably with the obligations to be so secured thereby

We Recommend These Debentures for Investment Price 991/4 and Interest, Yielding Over 5.33 %

Debentures are offered for delivery when, as and if issued and received by us and subject to approval of counsel. It is expected that temporary debentures will be ready for delivery on or about June 14, 1927.

Air Port Projects Aided by Lindbergh.

Washington expects the Lindbergh flight to prepare the public mind to absorb fully the scientific information to be gathered by Commander Byrd in his forthcoming transatiantic flight.

"The combined events will intensity many fold the interest in aviation, says the Ernst & Ernst review, "not merely as a sporting event, but as a practical commercial matter. The Government already has evidence of this, in the form of inquiries concerning methods of establishing air ports and requests for visits from aviation authorities coming from scores of cities. It is evident that business men are beginning to sigure on using planes for intercity transportation of mail and commodities of small bulk and high value," concludes the reviewer.

CAPITAL TRACTION ASKS TO PURCHASE

Company, if Given Approval, Will Pay $98,000 for Washington and Maryland.

HEARING WILL BE HELD; OPPOSITION EXPECTED

Plan Is to Operate Buses From Third and Kennedy Streets to Takoma Park.

The Capital Traction Co. informed the public utilities commission yester-day that it had entered into a con-tract with Charles Selden, owner of the $45,000 Reported Raised by capital stock of the Washington & Maryland Railroad Co., for purchase of the company for $98,000, contingent on the approval by the commission and by iblic service commission of Mary-

Plan Proposed Before.

Plan Proposed Before.

This method of operation has been proposed heretofore and has met with opposition by patrons of the line. For that reason a public hearing will be held on the proposed change in operation, although it has not been decided whether the hearing shall precede or succeed approval of the purchase by the commission.

The commission conferred yesterday with Andrew Sangster, New York valuation expert, over his retention as an expert witness to head the valuation of the property of the local gas companies, in company with H. Carl Wolfe, Baltimore engineer. Wolfe has already been retained.

The commission failed to come to an agreement with Sangster due, it is said, to the fact that he wanted his principal assistant engaged continuously to supervise the work here, whereas he would only put in part time. The commission took the view that, under the recent ruling of Comptroller General John R. McCarl, while Sangster could be retained as an expert witness on a per diem basis, his helper could not be employed on that basis. Sangster returned to New York with the understanding that he would submit an alternative proposal in writing.

$25,000 Suit Follows Opera Ticket Sale

Mrs. Kate Wilson-Greene, 1300 G Mrs. Kate Wilson-Greene, 1300 G street northwest, and Emmanuel Daniel, of Baltimore, Md., were used jointly yesterday in Circuit Court for $25,000 damages each by Jacob C. Levy, an attorney, of the Franklin National Bank Building, for alleged indignities said to have been endured by the plaintiff on April 23 at the Washington Anditorium.

On that day, according to the declaration presented for Levy by Attorneys. Hunter & Malloy, the opera "Il Travatore" was being presented and the tickets were handled by Mrs. Wilson-Greene. The plaintiff bought one, he says, but before he was seated he was approached by Daniel and his ticket taken from him in a manner which would indicate to the onlookers that the plaintiff had tried to get in without buying a ticket.

MAID DEMANDS HALF OF SPENCER ESTATE

Declares Woman Agreed to Will Her Part of Fortune for Services.

Virginia Hurdle, 336 Second street

Virginia Hurdle, 336 Second street northeast, filed suit yesterday in Equity Court against the American Security & Trust Co., executors of the estate of the late Mary Ann Spencer, to recover one-half of the estate, which she says belongs to her by reason of an agreement December 1, 1914.

Miss Spencer died June 8, 1919, and, by the terms of her will, she left $3,000 to friends and relatives and gave the residue, amounting to about $100,000, to the trust company for the purpose of erecting a monument over her grave. There is now pending a suit filed by the trust company for a construction of the Spencer will in connection with the provision for the monument.

Monarchs Arrange Virginia Convention

James F. Woods, 41 years old, 218 O street northwest, drove his automobile over the sea wall at Hains Point Tuesday afternoon with suicidal intent, a coroner's jury found yesterday at an inquest at the District Morgue. Woods wife testified that she believed her husband's legs were paralyzed and he was unable to apply the brakes when the machine left the road.

She said that several years ago operations resulting in the removal of varicose veins from one leg and a large vein from the other had caused Woods to temporarily lose the use of his legs. Several witnesses testified that Woods circled the Speedway twice before turning toward the sea wall and that he apparently made no effort to stop the car. The brakes on the car were locked when it was dragged from the river. The Washington Chapter of Monarchs met yesterday at the Ebbitt Hotel and discussed plans for attending the annual national convention, which will be held next week at Orkney Springs, Va. Most of the 50 members will attend.

Tomorrow night the chapter will stage its seventh bimonthly entertainment for orphans at the St. Roses' Technical School, Kalorama road and Phelps place northwest. Baby Hayden. 4 years of age, will dance in the feature act accompanied by Charles F. Brooks' Palace Orchestrs.
